Secretary of Interior Issues Instructions to Expedite Designation of Land Under Enlarged Homestead Law

For the last year or more public lands in the western states have been designated by the Secretary of the Interior as subject to entry under the so-called enlarged-homestead act, or the 320-acre homestead act, only on petition of those who desire to avail themselves of the provisions of this law. This procedure was an outgrowth of the desire of the Department to designate no lands which were not actually enterable under the law in question. In order to accomplish this end the status of each tract had to be investigated to determine whether it was already entered, was a school section, was involved in a State selection, or for any other reason had been taken out of the class of "unappropriated" public lands which alone are enterable under this act. This search meant that with the meager force available to the Department only slow progress should be made in the designation of lands for entry under this law.

Soon after the passage of the act lands had been designated for entry to their status, the only questions determined by the Department prior to designation being that the lands were surveyed, unreserved, and non-irrigable. Under this mode of procedure designations can be made with comparative rapidity, the availability of the lands for entry being determined by the applicant when he visits the local land office to file upon his claim. After the abandonment of this early procedure the law was extended to apply to North Dakota. The rule of designation by petition had been followed in that state, and the resulting delays have proved embarrassing both to the Department and to the citizens of North Dakota, as well as to those of other western states.

At the suggestion of Senator Grona, Secretary Lane has recently decided to revert to the earlier practice and designate the lands in large bodies after it is determined that they are nonirrigable, as required by the law. He has accordingly issued appropriate instructions to the Geological Survey, which is charged under the Department with the preparation of the lists of lands enterable under this law. This change will have the effect of greatly expediting the designation of lands under this law.

OLD HICKORY CHIPS. This country has reason to felicitate itself upon the large number of "strikers" that did not develop in the last year. No general credence will be given to the rumor that King George of Britain will visit this country until Queen Mary confirms it. President Elliot of the New Haven road says that the railroads must get nearer the people. They may, if they give certificates of honorable intentions. To insure more and cheaper meat, we are advised that we must quit killing and eating calves. But our prodigal sons have formed the habit. Of course, the prudent citizen of Adriaople keeps three or four changes of flags on his person for the emergencies of the day. As for those Mexican crises, we yawn in the face of one when we meet it now. They are too common. Blessed is the country that has no Castro. One way to end the Mexican disturbance is to let the factions lick each other to a frazzle. Being right there near the border, the Colonel might take Kermit and a few trusty Rough Riders and annex Mexico. An Indian as Register of the Treasury is something entirely new. Newport has become the great jewels-and-detective center of the world. One straight arm punch from the White House makes the jingoes rattle. 'Tis better to hold on to what you have than run against a winner and get licked. You'll never have good neighbors unless you are one. As a "summer capital" Washington may not equal Oyster Bay or Beverly in the matter of climate, but it gives better results politically. To make some women perfectly happy motion pictures should be operated on the bathing beaches. That neighbor who calls Mr. Bryan a rich man may be sued by the frugal commoner for defamation of character. Every time a steamboat runs into a bridge Chicago is reminded that its river is too narrow and is badly obstructed at that. Milliners have begun to design fall hats and poets are writing autumn verses, but the rest of the world is enjoying the summer weather. One advantage of being president of the United States is that you can call the baseball heroes by their first names without being rebuked. Huerta will have to go and get a reputation before President Wilson will recognize him. And he will have to begin by coming to the mourners' bench. When the Bull Moose and Republicans fight over campaign planks the splinters fly. The full horror of a tariff debate are not realized until Reed Smoot jumps in and begins to shriek. If Tex could drag the Standard Oil Company into court often enough the would not need to tax her citizens at all. Men like to talk as well as women do, but they pay for it. Some wives really believe that they have faith in their husbands. You may expect cold treatment from others, if you make it hot for them. Castro has "come back", and we suppose this will be encouraging to Col. Roosevelt. Col. Mulhall is to be commended for having refrained from saying that he stands at Armageddon. Scientists say that life is reaction. This ought to be encouraging to the reactionaries. The war in the Balkans was terrific, but we don't believe it was any worse than some of the moving pictures of it made on Long Island. The destruction of that Mexican gunboat by an aeroplane was a great victory for the newspaper correspondent at El Paso. Why not give the British women the right to vote? Look at the way Queen Mary is managing George. The torrid spell came right in the midst of the office seeker's winter of discontent. We wonder if Ambassador Wilson bought a return ticket when he left Mexico. Turning the thermometer upside down helps a little. Wm. Saurbraun, Western Union Telegraph Company chief at Alliance, who has been on a vacation for some time, returned to Alliance on Saturday, leaving for a short trip to Denver that night. B. B. Posey, of Angora, who is advertising a number of cattle for sale in The Herald, has been selling quite a number. He went to Douglas, Wyoming, on business Monday.

SUMMER COLDS. rapidly reduce human strength and illness is easily contracted, but Scott's Emulsion will promptly relieve the cold and rebuild your strength to prevent sickness.

From our limited acquaintance with Editor Frank Martin of Battie Creek, we would hardly place him in the white hope class but his recent encounter with the mayor of Norfolk indicates that he has some aspirations in that direction. We don't know a thing about the controversy but on general principles we always back a member of the fraternity. Martin is long enough, and lean enough to be pretty hard to handle in a mixup.—Newman Grove Reporter.
